THE INSCRIPTION OF

THE GOVERNOR NES-HOR,

IN THE LOUVRE.

SAITE DYNASTY.

BY

PAUL PIERRET,
Conservateur-Adjoint.

A FINE statue in the Museum of the Louvre\(^1\) represents a functionary of Apries, named Nes-Hor, who was governor of the southern provinces of Egypt. He is kneeling and holds the effigy of the Triad which was adored at the Cataracts. The pillar against which his back leans, bears the following Inscription, from \(^1\) No. A 90, of the Catalogue.

which it is proved that this statue, now unfortunately denaturalized by a modern restoration, came from the more ancient of the two temples of Elephantine, now destroyed. The text of it has been faithfully reproduced in Clarac, Royal Museum of the Louvre,
No. 367.
INSCRIPTION OF NES-HOR.

. . . . . . . . . 'His Majesty hath placed him in a most high dignity, dignity of his eldest son, (as) Governor of the regions of the South,
5 to repulse from thence the rebellious communities.
He hath established his fear amongst the people of the South and hath driven them towards their mountains. . . .
He hath sought the graces of his master,
10 the King Apries whose favour was for (him) Nes-Hor, surnamed (Psametik-Menkh, son of (Auprer)), born of the lady (Ta-tent-hor), truthful.
He says: "O Lord of the creating-ardor, maker of gods and men, Khnum, Lord of Nubia,
15 Sati and Anouke, Ladies of Elephantine!

1 Half of the first column is blank.
2 The title of "Prince of Ethiopia" is, in fact, usually given to the heir to the crown.
3 Apries, Hophra, or Uahphahet as he is called in the hieroglyphic inscriptions, was one of the petty kings of the Dodecarchy in the Saitite dynasty. He was the son of Psametik II by his aunt and mother the Princess Neitaker. He conquered Cyprus and Phenicia taking the city of Sidon by assault, and invited by Zedekiah king of Judah, came to his help against Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon. His assistance was, however, useless and only provoked an Assyrian invasion of the Delta of Egypt. Uahphahet reigned twenty-five years, when he was dethroned by an insurrection among his subjects, strangled, and buried at Sais. His name has been supposed to mean, "the Sun enlarges his heart."
4 The same name, though not the same person, as the Hophra of Hebrew Scriptures.
I am gladdened by your persons; I adore your beauties;
I am incapable of weariness in the act of loving your persons;
my heart is full of your persons . . .
20 I call to your mind what I have done for your dwellings.
I have rendered your temple splendid by silver vases,
oxen, geese sar, and geese apt, in great numbers,
of which I have constituted the feeding in their park,
as well as that of their Keepers, for ever and eternally;
25 I have built their house in this locality.
I have made a gift of excellent wine of the country of Aoun1 and of the South, of wheat and of beer
I have had your storehouse constructed anew,
30 in the great name of His Majesty.
I have given oil of the tree Tesheru,2
for the burning of the lamps of your temple.
I have given weavers, servants, tailors for the august habiliment 35 of the great god and the gods of his cycle,
for whom I have built chapels in his temple;
(these chapels) I have founded them for eternity
by order of the good god Apries, life-eternal.
Remember that I have made embellishments in your dwelling, 40 in its centre. Let Nes-Hor perpetuate himself in the mouth of the citizen, in recompense of that!
Let my name be placed in your dwelling,
that my person may be remembered after my existence.

1 It was wine of Syria. The inscription of Amenemheb tells us that Aoun was at the west of Halep or Aleppo.
2 Otherwise called "The Red Tree," from teshr, "red." The species has not yet been identified.
Let my statue be erected to perpetuate my name and that it may not perish as if I were put in a dwelling afflicted with the ark of the Amu, of the people of the North, of the Asiatics and the profane ...
I have had a march made against the Shasu of the upper country,
in the midst of them. The terror of His Majesty was against the wicked act they executed
after having strengthened their heart in their design.
I have not let them advance quite into Nubia,
I have let them approach the place where was His Majesty
who hath made a great carnage amongst them."
The Governor of the South, Nes-Hor says: "O Prophets and Priests of this temple of Khnum, Lord of Nubia, of Sati and of Anouke ..."
you shall be favoured by your gods, your body will prosper

1 Amu, "People," an Egyptian word which was applied indiscriminately to the yellow race, or any of the Semitic nations or tribes with whom they were at war. It was derived from the Semitic noun am, which means "people" also.
2 Lacuna.
3 The Shashous, or Shasu, was a generic term applied to the Arab or Bedouin tribes who inhabited the desert between Syria and the Northeastern frontier of Egypt; they were a great source of annoyance to the Egyptian kings, and were conquered but only for a short time, both by Amenhotep I of the XVIIIth, and Seti I of the XIXth, Dynasties.
4 Anouke, an Egyptian warlike goddess, possibly of Syrian origin. She was represented as a woman with a spear in her hand, and with a peculiar crown formed of high feathers curving outwardly from a white bonnet upon her head. She was the third member of the great Nubian Triad, and her worship dates to the period of Osisesen III. of the XIIth Dynasty. Her festival took place on the 28th day of Paophi and the 30th of Abyr.
by means of divine food, you will transmit your dignities 65 to your children according as you shall say:

Proscynêma to Khnum, Sati, Anouke, and to the divine cycle of Elephantine . . .
